

Membership-based co-working space for interaction across industries

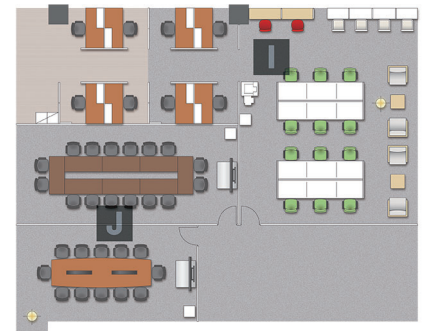

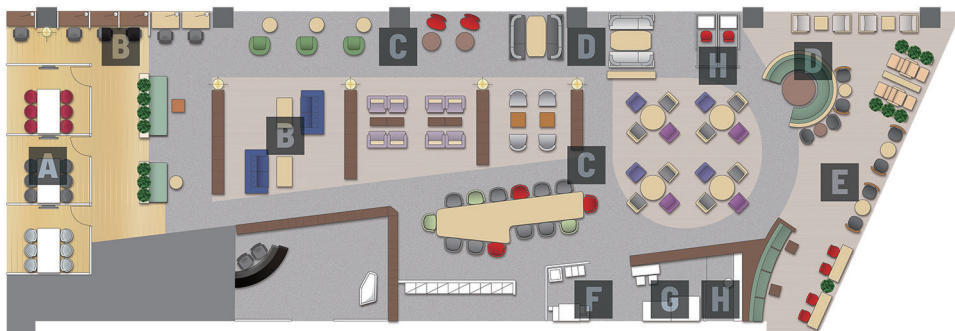

Have you ever felt the urge to create an environment where you can concentrate on learning, or build your own network of like-minded business people to maximize your career potential? Maybe you've never had the chance to act on that urge. Or maybe you made start, but couldn't keep things going. We know plenty of people who feel the same way.

Here at Kansai University, we've created a space in Umeda, Osaka, for people like you. Here you can have some space to yourself for working quietly. You can also use communal spaces to interact with like-minded people on an ongoing basis, building and expanding your own brand-new human network.

Our space gives you a third base of operations, that is neither your workplace nor your home.
